ORDER OF PROCEEDINGS

Academic Procession.
(The congregation is requested to stand as the procession enters the hall and is invited to participate in the singing of Gaudeamus)

The Vice-Chancellor will constitute the congregation.

The National Anthem.

The University Statement of Dedication will be read by a representative of the SRC.

Musical Item.

Welcome by the Deputy Vice-Chancellor, Professor F Petersen.

The Deputy Vice-Chancellor will present Donald Alan Ross and Murray Victor Leibbrandt for the award of a Fellowship.

The Deputy Vice-Chancellor will present the Social Responsiveness Award to Stuart Hendry.

Professor Petersen will introduce the guest speaker, Mr Sandile Zungu, Executive Chairman of Zungu Investments Company (Pty) Ltd.

Address by Mr Zungu.

The graduands and the diplomates will be presented to the Vice-Chancellor by the Dean of the Faculty of Commerce.

The Vice-Chancellor will congratulate the new graduates and diplomates.

Professor Petersen will make closing announcements and invite the congregation to stand.

The Vice-Chancellor will dissolve the congregation.

The procession, including the new graduates, will leave the hall.
(The congregation is requested to remain standing until the procession has left the hall.)

The music for the recessional march was composed by Emeritus Professor Klatzow.
GAUDEAMUS

Gaudeamus igitur, juvenes dum sumus,
Gaudeamus igitur, juvenes dum sumus,
   Post jucundam juventutem, post
   molestam senectutem,
Nos habebit humus, nos habebit humus.

Ubi sunt qui ante nos in mundo fuere?
Ubi sunt qui ante nos in mundo fuere?
   Vadite ad superos, transite ad inferos,
   Quos si vis videre, quos si vis videre.

   Vita nostra brevis est, brevi finietur,
   Vita nostra brevis est, brevi finietur,
   Venit mors velociter, rapit nos atrociter,
   Nemini parcetur, nemini parcetur.

   Vivat Academia, vivant Professores,
   Vivat Academia, vivant Professores,
   Vivat membrum quodlibet, vivant membra quaelibet,
   Semper sint in flore, semper sint in flore.
NATIONAL ANTHEM

Nkosi sikele' iAfrika
Maluphakanyisw' uphondolwayo,
Yizwa imithandazo yethu,
Nkosi sikelela, thina lusapho lwayo.

Morena boloka etjhaba sa heso,
O fedise dintwa la matshwenyeho,
O se boloke,
O se boloke setjhaba sa heso,
Setjhaba sa South Afrika – South Afrika.

Uit die blou van onse hemel,
Uit die diepte van ons see,
Oor ons ewige gebergtes,
Waar die kranse antwoord gee,

Sounds the call to come together,
And united we shall stand,
Let us live and strive for freedom,
In South Africa our land.
DISTINCTIONS IN THE FACULTY OF COMMERCE

The BCom and BBusSc degrees may be awarded with distinction in a subject, where the student achieves a weighted average of at least 75% in a group of courses in, or related to, that subject (in some cases the average mark required is 80%) in the degree, where the student achieves a weighted average of 80% in all courses.

Honours degrees are awarded by class of pass (first, second class division one, second class division two, or third).

Master’s degrees may be awarded with distinction for the dissertation, (in a coursework and dissertation curriculum) for especially meritorious work, the dissertation being in the first class (at least 75%) and at least 70% for the coursework depending on the degree.

in the degree, for especially meritorious work, where the average is at least 75% and no component is below 70%.
FELLOWSHIP

The election by Senate of a member of the faculty to be a fellow recognises sustained and original contributions through research or creative endeavour.

The fellows in the Faculty of Commerce and the years of election are:

2008:  RE Dorrington

The following members of the Faculty of Commerce have been elected to a fellowship:

Donald Alan Ross
Professor, Economics

Professor Ross is a Professor of Economics and Dean of Commerce. His work concerns the borderland between economic methodology, cognitive science and the philosophy of science. He is, as attested to by his recent A-rating from the NRF, a world leader in both the philosophy of economics and the philosophy of science.

His PhD was on the philosophy of science, and its thesis is an application of modular architecture from artificial intelligence to a problem in linguistic processing and cognitive learning. He has taught, researched and applied game theory throughout his career, and it informs and unites the majority of his work. His eminence in this field is underscored by the fact that he is the author of the Game Theory article in the Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy.

He is also widely acclaimed internationally for his defence of scientifically inspired metaphysics. He firmly believes that methodological work should be closely informed by empirical research experience. Over the past few years he has increasingly emphasized this activity, which has allowed him to test his abstract ideas in application to phenomena. Since 2008 he has led an interdisciplinary research team of economists and psychologists in applying his ‘anti-behavioural’ approach to behavioural phenomena, particularly addiction and related disorders of impulsive consumption.

Professor Ross’s work uses proper econometric techniques, and quantitatively estimated values that can potentially be added as variables to economic models so as to improve their specification. This represents completely original thinking and it promises to deliver important insights.

Professor Ross was elected in 2012 as President of the Society for Neuroeconomics.
Murray Victor Leibbrandt
Professor, Economics

Professor Murray Leibbrandt is Pro Vice-Chancellor with responsibility for the Poverty and Inequality initiative, Professor of Economics, Director of the Southern African Labour and Development Research Unit (SALDRU) and an IZA Research Fellow. He holds a DST/NRF SARChI Chair in Poverty and Inequality Research. Driven by the twin ideas that South African researchers needed to be heavily engaged in the production of our own evidence for policy-making and policy assessment, but that our responsibilities in this regard are always to ensure careful data analysis and best-practice methodologies, he engaged on a research programme to make just such a contribution to build these capacities in South Africa.

In the late 1990s he led the process that resulted in the 2001 book Fighting Poverty: Labour Markets and in South Africa. He and Haroon Bhorat were awarded the Alan Pifer award for this book in 2003. The book has been widely cited and is used both as a quantitative stock-take of 1990s South Africa and as a technical reference work on the methodologies of poverty and inequality analysis. By the 2000s Murray Leibbrandt was part of a small group that were motivating for, and analysing, longitudinal data in order to explore social mobility in South African and, in particular, the dynamic aspects of poverty and inequality. In 2006 the Presidency decided to fund a national longitudinal study, the National Income Dynamics Study (NIDS), Professor Leibbrandt’s advice was sought, based on his experience.

His work since 2007 has focused on measuring and explaining trends in poverty and inequality in the post-apartheid period and to understand the socio economic dynamics undergirding changes in poverty and inequality in contemporary South Africa. The work that he has led shows that South Africa has been successful in lowering poverty rates over the post-apartheid period but that inequality has not come down. His work has contributed to this view becoming accepted into recent work of government. The improvements in poverty over the post apartheid period are driven largely by the ambitious extension of social grants over the post-apartheid period. Due to rising unemployment and low real earnings for vulnerable workers, the labour market has not played a virtuous role in poverty alleviation and Professor Leibbrandt shows that it is the key driver of increased inequality.
SOCIAL RESPONSIVENESS AWARD

The Social Responsiveness Award provides an institutional signal to members of the University that social responsiveness is an important priority.

Stuart Hendry

In 2011 the Faculty of Commerce decided to identify a social responsiveness initiative of sufficient scale to potentially involve an indefinite number of staff and postgraduate contributors, sufficient scope to draw in expertise from the full range of Commerce disciplines, and sufficient importance to constitute a major social contribution. This initiative would be given the status of one of the Faculty’s top three strategic priorities.

The Faculty selected the Southern Africa Sustainable Development Initiative (SASDI) Starting Chance campaign which aims to upgrade 30 shack-based crèches into formal centres of excellence for Early Childhood Development (ECD), with each centre acting as a “hub” in a network of support that can provide resources and expertise to other shack-based crèches and constitute a model for promoting pro-education values in poor communities. The Starting Chance campaign was launched in recognition of the fact that a major perpetuating aspect of the cycle of poverty and inequality in the Western Cape is low-stimulus environments for young children, where learning and cognitive development are not emphasized and reinforced.

As Director of the Commerce Faculty’s Development Unit for New Enterprise (DUNE) and Co-Founder and Trustee of SASDI, Stuart Hendry is perfectly placed to lead this unique collaboration. In 2010 he led a collaboration between SASDI, the City of Cape Town and student and staff volunteers to build the pilot Starting Chance facility – The Mfuleni Centre for Early Childhood Development – which now serves 220 children.

The second Starting Chance “hub” is now running in Phillippi and the third will be built in New Crossroads, where, at his initiative, the Commerce Faculty took over maintenance responsibility for a property UCT had acquired in the 1990s but was not using. Stuart Hendry is currently personally leading the essential effort to build understanding of our aims in the New Crossroads community, so that the community adopts the initiative as its own.

Stuart Hendry is also coordinating the Faculty’s support for Starting Chance. The activities constituting engaged scholarship around the initiative include performing quantitative and qualitative impact assessments, using innovative scientific research practice to deliver policy-driving research studies; and helping centre Principals develop the business plans and acumen they need as newly formalized entities. His leadership and commitment to sustainable community upliftment is not limited to Starting Chance. He serves on the boards of various other NGOs, and in 2013 was elected to Chair the Board of the Homestead Projects for Street Children. In addition, Stuart has over the past five years led his Postgraduate students in raising more than R300,000 for various class charity projects, including Mothers Unite in Lavender Hill, the South African Education Project (SAEP) in Philippi and the Emasithandane Children’s Home in Langa.

DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

In Economics:
Kerri Brick
Thesis Title: Behavioral economic applications to climate change mitigation and adaptation: public good games and risk experiments

Kerri Brick has a BCom(Hons) and an MCom from UCT. Her doctoral work is derived from her research as a junior research fellow in the Environmental Economics Policy Research Unit at the University of Cape Town. Any public policy response to climate change must address both mitigation and adaptation. In this context, Kerri Brick’s thesis uses laboratory and field experiments to examine different dimensions of individuals’ mitigation and adaptive behaviour. With respect to mitigation, using public good games framed to reflect international and domestic climate change negotiations, the thesis considers the prevalence and impact of self-interested use of equity preferences in multilateral climate change negotiations and the effect of asymmetric mitigation costs on cooperation in meeting a mitigation target in a domestic setting. With respect to adaptation, using a series of risk experiments, the thesis assesses the relationship between risk attitudes and choice of adaptation strategy in the context of (i) uncertainty around the timing and severity of climate variability and, (ii), uncertainty around the outcome of proposed adaptive strategies.

Richard Michael Charlton
Thesis Title: Extrinsic uncertainty, ergodic chaos and monetary policy in two intertemporal economic models

Richard Charlton holds a BA (Hons) from the University of Reading (UK), an MSc from the ICMA Centre for Financial Studies (UK) and an MCom from UCT. His doctoral work was motivated by the experience of writing a previous thesis as well as an interest in general equilibrium theory. Richard Charlton’s thesis examines two intertemporal economic models. The focus of the study is the structure of the equilibrium set by means of an application of the mathematical tools of differential topology and the theory of discrete dynamical systems. Emphasis is placed on the role of subjective probabilities and the size of the set of equilibria, genericity analysis or structural stability of equilibria as well as ergodic chaos and the effect of monetary policy on welfare in dynamical equilibrium. The thesis is theoretical in nature with discussions backed up by simulated examples.

Supervisor: Professor H Abraham (Economics)
Coretha Komba
Thesis Title: The Economics of Climate Change Vulnerability, Adaptation and Mitigation in Tanzania

Coretha Komba received her Masters degree from the International University of Japan in 2004. She enrolled into the Collaborative PhD Programme in the School of Economics in 2009. Coretha Komba’s thesis provides empirical evidence for reducing Tanzanian smallholder farmers’ vulnerability to climate change through adaptation and mitigation. The objectives of the study are achieved through identifying the characteristics of vulnerable farmers and assessing the role of adaptation in reducing vulnerability; examining factors influencing farmers’ choice of adaptation methods and drawing implications for upscaling desirable methods; and analysing factors affecting household participation in REDD+. The results indicate that more than 50 percent of smallholder farmers are vulnerable to climate change and that adaptation is vital in reducing vulnerability. Farmers have generally used short-season crops, drought-resistant crops, irrigation, changing planting dates and tree planting to adapt to the negative impacts of climate change but the government needs to help farmers overcome the constraints that prevent them from implementing appropriate adaptation methods for their circumstances. The results also show that households are willing to participate in REDD+ if they get an average compensation of US$2,072 per year. The thesis concludes that smallholder farmers are key stakeholders in Tanzania’s response to climate change.

Supervisor: A/Professor E Muchapondwa (School of Economics)

Seán Muller graduated from UCT with a Masters in Applied Economics. He won a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford where he completed an MPhil in Economics. He came back to lecture in UCT’s School of Economics and is now an Economic Analyst in the Parliamentary Budget Office. Seán Muller’s thesis examines the issue of external validity of randomised control trials. In particular he argues that interactive relationships between the treatment variable and other variables can make it difficult to extrapolate from a trial to new contexts. His masterful review of the literature and diagnosis of key problems was highly praised by all examiners. He shows the empirical relevance of his analysis by re-analysing a famous US class size experiment “Project STAR” that was conducted in Tennessee. He develops an innovative method to back out a “teacher quality” measure from the data and then applies this to show that the impact of class sizes on student performance depends on the quality of the teacher. Specifically, higher quality teachers are associated with more beneficial effects of smaller classes.

Martin Phangaphanga
Thesis title: Internal migration, remittances and household welfare: evidence from South Africa

Martin Phangaphanga previously studied economics and demography at the University of Malawi where he received his BSc and MA degrees. He joined faculty as lecturer in Economics at the same university before enrolling for the African Economic Research Consortium (AERC) collaborative doctoral programme. Martin Phangaphanga’s thesis empirically examines the linkages between internal migration and household welfare with a focus on black South African households. The analysis is couched in the new economics of labour migration theory, which emphasises the familial participation and community involvement in migration decisions and therefore the potential role of economic linkages between migrants and their original households. Applying both descriptive and rigorous econometric techniques and using various nationally representative surveys, the thesis unpacks the importance of remittance income on household poverty and inequality. Descriptive statistics show that remittances are an income source in about one in five rural black households. However, careful regression analysis dampens the net effect of migration and remittances on income poverty by recognising and controlling for the fact that the poorest households are not able to send migrants and receive remittances. Additionally, the thesis attempts to explain the dampened effect by analysing and estimating the various motives behind remittance behaviour.

Boroto Hwabamungu
Thesis Title: The influence of stakeholders' relations on the implementation of information systems strategy in public hospitals in South Africa: an activity theory perspective

Boroto Hwabamungu has a BCom(Hons) in Information Systems from the University of the Western Cape, and an MCom (Informatics) degree from the University of Pretoria. He completed his doctoral research while employed at the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR), Pretoria.

Boroto Hwabamungu’s thesis undertakes an exploration of the intricacies of stakeholder relations and the implications of these relations on the implementation of information systems (IS) strategy in public hospitals in South Africa. His work follows an interpretive case study approach in two provinces of South Africa: the Western Cape and Kwazulu Natal respectively. The Activity Analysis and Development framework is used as the theoretical lens. Findings reveal that factors such as situational dynamics, the level and motive of stakeholder involvement in IS strategic activities and IS strategy operationalisation activities influence different elements of the IS strategy implementation activity system. These findings are integrated into a theoretical framework. At a practical level, the developed framework can be used as a tool to diagnose stakeholder relations and their implications for implementation of IS strategy in public hospitals in South Africa.

*James Boniface Mwangi
Thesis Title: Antecedents of work-family conflict among Hindu working women in South Africa: Stressors, social support, and cultural values.

James Boniface Mwangi has a BSc (Computer Science & Statistics) from Jomo Kenyatta University and an MSc (Information Systems) from the University of Nairobi.

James Mwangi’s thesis examines the decision criteria used by Kenyan SMEs when making mobile banking adoption and usage decisions, and unearths the intended and unintended consequences of use. The study uses ethnographic decision tree modeling (EDTM) which is a cognitive research approach. Structuration theory is used as a lens to view the complex context in which mobile banking is embedded and adopted by SMEs in Kenya. Decision models developed through EDTM reveal that Kenyan SMEs adopt the technology not because of its affordability, but for such reasons as accessibility, safe custody of daily income, staffing constraints, trust structures, and membership to microfinance institutions that disburse loans through cell phones. EDTM is thus shown to yield findings that have significant implications for fiscal and monetary policy-makers, development experts and mobile banking technology designers.

Supervisor: Professor I Brown (Information Systems)

In Organisational Psychology:

Ameeta Jaga
Thesis title: Antecedents of work-family conflict among Hindu working women in South Africa: Stressors, social support, and cultural values.

Ameeta Jaga has a BCom(Hons) and MCom (with distinction) in Organisational Psychology from UCT. In 2009 she became a member of the academic staff.

Ameeta Jaga’s thesis develops a new and culturally nuanced explanatory model of the factors contributing to work-family conflict amongst Hindu working women in South Africa. The model was developed after synthesising the existing literature with data derived from a series of in-depth interviews that generated ideas for further investigation in a quantitative study. The thesis explains the interplay between culturally embedded role stressors, sources of social support, and personal value orientations that have distinctive effects on the work-family conflict experienced by Hindu working women. A deep understanding of the work-family dynamics facing working women from previously disadvantaged groups helps facilitate the development of effective family-friendly policies that encourage such women to enter the world of work and thereby not only transform organisations but help promote social transformation in South Africa.

ACADEMIC DRESS

OFFICERS OF THE UNIVERSITY

CHANCELLOR
The Chancellor wears a gown made from dark blue silk. The front of the gown has facings down each side made of dark blue velvet embroidered with a gold floral design. The gown and sleeves are lined with pale blue silk and the sleeves are looped up in front with a gold cord and button. The yoke of the gown is edged with gold cord. The gown is worn with a square blue velvet hat with a soft crown and gold tassel.

VICE-CHANCELLOR
The Vice-Chancellor wears a gown made from bright blue silk. The front of the gown has facings down each side and sleeve-linings of pale blue silk. The sleeves are looped up in front with a gold cord and button and the yoke of the gown is edged with gold cord. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a silver cord.

DEPUTY VICE-CHANCELLOR
A Deputy Vice-Chancellor wears a gown made from dark blue silk. The gown has closed sleeves with an inverted T-shaped opening at the level of the elbow to free the arms. The front of the gown has facings of light blue down each side. The sleeves are lined with light blue and the yoke of the gown is edged with silver cord. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a silver cord.

CHAIR OF COUNCIL
The Chair of Council wears a gown, of the same pattern as that worn by the Vice-Chancellor, made from light blue silk. The front of the gown has facings down each side and a yoke of dark blue. The sleeves are lined with dark blue and the facings and yoke are trimmed with gold cord. The sleeves are looped up in front with a gold cord and button. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a gold tassel.

MEMBERS OF COUNCIL
Members of Council wear graduate-pattern gowns made from black silk. The front of the gown has 10cm wide, light blue facings down each side trimmed with dark blue cord. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a blue cord.

REGISTRAR
The Registrar wears a gown made from black silk. The front of the gown has 10cm wide facings of blue silk down each side. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a white cord.

PRESIDENT OF CONVOCATION
The President of Convocation wears a gown made from black silk and has long closed sleeves with an inverted T-shaped opening at the level of the elbow to free the arms. The front of the gown has facings down each side and sleeves of blue silk. The gown is worn with a black velvet bonnet with a blue tassel.

GOWNS
A plain black gown styled after the pattern of the Oxford scholar’s gown is worn by diplomats, and Bachelor’s, Honours and Master’s graduands. Senior doctoral graduands wear a scarlet gown, with facings the colour distinctive of the faculty in which the degree is awarded. PhD graduands wear a scarlet gown without facings.

HOODS
The hood is particular to the qualification and the faculty. Diplomates and Bachelor’s graduands wear a black hood lined with white and edged with the colour distinctive of the faculty. Master’s graduands wear a black hood lined with the colour distinctive of the faculty and edged with white, except in the case of the hood for the MMed degree, which is edged with red. Senior doctoral graduands wear a hood of the colour distinctive of the faculty and a black velvet bonnet with a cord of the colour distinctive of the faculty in which the degrees is awarded. PhD graduands wear a hood of scarlet lined with black and a black velvet bonnet with a cord of the colour distinctive of the faculty in which the degree is awarded.

MISSION STATEMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CAPE TOWN

UCT aspires to become a premier academic meeting point between South Africa, the rest of Africa and the world. Taking advantage of expanding global networks and our distinct vantage point in Africa, we are committed, through innovative research and scholarship, to grapple with the key issues of our natural and social worlds. We aim to produce graduates whose qualifications are internationally recognised and locally applicable, underpinned by values of engaged citizenship and social justice. UCT will promote diversity and transformation within our institution and beyond, including growing the next generation of academics.

Foundation statement underpinning the mission statement

Our research-led identity is shaped by a commitment to:
• academic freedom as the prerequisite to fostering intellectual debate and free inquiry;
• ensuring that research informs all our activities including teaching, learning and service to the community;
• advancing and disseminating knowledge that addresses the key challenges facing society – South African, continental and global;
• protecting “curiosity driven” research;
• nurturing and valuing creativity in the sciences and arts including the performing and creative arts;
• stimulating international linkages of researchers and research groupings.

We strive to provide a superior quality educational experience for undergraduate and postgraduate students through:
• providing an intellectually and socially stimulating environment;
• inspired and dedicated teaching and learning;
• exposure to the excitement of creating new knowledge;
• stimulating the love of life-long learning;
• the cultivation of competencies for global citizenship;
• supporting programmes that stimulate the social consciousness of students;
• offering access to courses outside the conventional curricula;
• attracting a culturally and internationally diverse community of scholars;
• guaranteeing internationally competitive qualifications;
• offering a rich array of social, cultural, sporting and leadership opportunities;
• providing an enabling physical and operational environment.

In advancing UCT as an Afropolitan university, we will:
• expand our expertise on Africa and offer it to the world;
• extend our networks on the continent, along with our global connections and partnerships;
• promote student and staff exchanges and collaborative research and postgraduate programmes;
• engage critically with Africa’s intellectuals and world views in teaching and research;
• contribute to strengthening higher education on our continent.

We strive to provide an environment for our diverse student and staff community that:
• promotes a more equitable and non-racial society;
• supports redress in regard to past injustices;
• is affirming and inclusive of all staff and students and promotes diversity in demographics, skills and backgrounds;
• offers individual development opportunities to all staff;
• is welcoming as a meeting space for scholars from Africa and around the world.
THE UNIVERSITY OF CAPE TOWN DONOR ROLL

The University of Cape Town gratefully acknowledges the sustained contributions of the following partners. Their generosity has assisted us toward our goals of improving student access to tertiary education and promoting curriculum, staff and student transformation; increasing our research capacity; and implementing programmes that promote social engagement and community upliftment.

Welcome, Wamkelekile, Welkom – today is not the end of your relationship with the university but the beginning of a new phase in your continuing relationship with UCT, one that you share with the UCT community of over 100 000 alumni.

Diverse as this community is, the shared experiences of a critical academic ethos and a spectacular campus make for a strong network that has a wide footprint, not only in South Africa, but across the continent and the globe.

We set a great store by our links with our alumni, and indeed the links alumni have with each other. We promise that we will be in touch, and ask you in turn to let us know not only your current contact details but also, from time to time, something of your lives and where you are in your careers.

Updates can be done on the web – http://www.uct.ac.za/dad/alumni/update/ - or by writing to the Alumni Office, UCT, PB X3 Rondebosch 7701 or by contacting us on (27) (21) 650 3746.

Your alma mater looks forward to welcoming you back, whether to a public lecture, a leadership forum, your class reunion, or just an informal call!
